

Designing a successful luxury home requires a unique blend of skills – an eye for detail, a flair for style, a keen awareness of costs. Your luxury home needs to press all the right buttons for your key market and it must stand out from the rest of the properties because of its unmistakable quality and desirability. Creating instant impact in a luxury home can help to satisfy these demands by focusing on one of the major interior features – the staircase. Oakleaf Industries has a unique product portfolio which includes stunning stainless steel and acrylic spirals through to innovative spacesaver stairways, and which helps to fulfill the demanding design brief required for the luxury home market. The product choice ranges from off-the-shelf packages through to bespoke staircases, and from contemporary to traditional designs. Their pre-designed staircases, where you select the materials – acrylic, stainless steel or timber – will excite your customers and delight your finance director! As a specialist supplier, Oakleaf Industries' exceptional depth of expertise and knowledge is recognised to be of real benefit to their clients, enabling them to guide architects, developers and designers through the ever-increasing jungle of Building Regulations and British Standards. Their enthusiasm for their products is also tangible – and highly infectious!